Sawins Surprised

Last Wednesday evening the teachers of the primary and grammar schools and Supt. Carrie M. Wight gave Mr. and Mrs. Harry Sawin a surprise party in celebration of their birthday. The unexpected guests brought bountiful refreshments and a very pleasant evening was enjoyed. The following poem, read by Miss Wight, expressed the sentiment of the visitors:

Mr. Sawin
A little bird was heard to say That you and Mrs. have a birthday.
The same month as our great men Abraham Lincoln and Washington.
We don't know the date for either of you Only that the 5th and 13th are dates for the two.
We thought 'twould be fun to just step in
And say, hello! to make you grin.
You know us best around the school Sober and solemn, not want to fool.
But tonight you see us full of fun Maybe so silly as to make you run.
But before you go please let us say To you and Mrs. "Happy Birthday."
Not one but many we wish for you Friends of our schools, loyal and true

MRS. FRANCIS LORD

Mrs. Nettie Stevens Lord passed away at her home at Rumford Corner Tuesday, Feb. 16, at 3:30 p. m. Although Mrs. Lord had been in ill health for the past five years she had not been confined to her bed until the past week. She was born in Lynn, Mass., June 8, 1873, the daughter of Henry and Cecilia Abbott Stevens, coming to Rumford at the age of nine months where she has since made her home.

She married Francis Lord Dec. 31, 1895, and three sons were born to this union. H. Steven, who died Aug. 17, 1933, Laurence and Robert, both of Bethel.

Mrs. Lord will be deeply mourned by her family and greatly missed by all who knew her. She will live in the hearts of her family and friends for her gentle and sweet friendliness to all with whom she came in contact.

She was a member of the United Methodist Church and the Grange, although frail health had not permitted her to take active part for several years.

Besides her husband and sons she leaves four grandchildren, Alton, Donald, Janice and Laurie Lord.

The services were held from the Greenleaf funeral home at 2 o'clock this (Thursday) afternoon with Rev. H. T. Wallace officiating. Interment was at Riverside Cemetery.

Your gentle face and patient smile with sadness we recall You had a kindly word for each And died beloved by all

The voice is mute and still the heart That loved us well and true; But later was the trial to part From one so good as you.

But are not forgotten loved one, Nor will you ever be As long as life and in more last We will remember thee

Mexico Pintos Here For Last Home Game

On Wednesday, Feb. 24th, Gould will play its last home game, with the Mexico Pintos as foes. The visitors come to Bethel with an unusually strong team which includes an exceptionally tall center who has done some fine work for his team at times.

Gould-Mexico games in the past have always bordered in the sensational. Whether this year's midgeet team can put up a battle against their superior foes remains to be seen. The home team can be depended upon to give their best, as building on Tuesday evening, Feb. 16th. The meeting was opened by a short business session.

They Must Be Told
When a man has something to advertise and does not use the newspaper—we both lose—but he is the biggest loser, for his possible percentage of loss is greater than ours. Our loss is a small fee for service rendered, while his is a capital loss, sometimes of great proportions. There is no selling without first telling and creating a desire, or pointing out a need. Don't be silly and think you save when you fail to tell folks what you have to sell.

South Paris Teams Defeat Gould Boys and Girls

Both the South Paris boys and girls' teams won victories over Gould last Friday. The girls' game was a close hard fought battle with the score 10 to 3. The Gould girls missed 18 out of 20 free throws which spelled defeat for them. In the second game the South Paris Western Maine Conference Champions had little trouble frowning the Gould midgets to the tune of 46-20. Only for a brief spell in the second period when Gould scored five points in rapid succession to bring the score to 10-12 did the home team appear a threat. South Paris rallied and scored four baskets from the tip-off before the half ended, leaving them with a comfortable 20-10 lead. Neither of Gould's regular forwards were able to score a field goal, so closely were they guarded. Parker Brown and Stiles played the best ball for the losers with McFarland also doing a better than usual job. For the winners Stearns was the outstanding player on the floor.

With the ankle injury of Parker Brown, Gould has lost its other regular guard for the remainder of the season. With both Brown and Eddy Robertson out the team is very much weakened but the few remaining regulars will "carry on" with a spirit that can't be whipped.

"B" Squad 18—Walton Junior High 11

In this game the "B" Team started very slowly and were behind 7-2 at the quarter. Their offense was slow and players were dribbling when they should have been passing. However, they speeded up a little in the second quarter and tied the score at seven all. In the third quarter "Stubby" Wheeler got into action and immediately sank a couple of nice shots to give Gould a lead which they held for the remainder of the game.

This team meets South Paris Junior High in a return game on Wednesday evening at 7:35 and will try to avenge a 24-22 beating taken at Paris. If they can only get their passes speeded up and break better for the basket their chances of winning this final game are good.

Sad To See Socialism Cease

It is sad and strange to see Russia gradually giving up the fight for the workingman and to see the intellectual writers almost emotionally defending Russia in the belief that she is a laboratory working out Socialist principles. At least that's how Max Eastman feels about it.

Whether you think of his article in Harpers for February a piece of propaganda for those who are out of power and want to be in or not, it makes an interesting bit of reading.

He believes that when the Soviets assert that they are "building a classless society" and that "socialism is finally and irrevocably achieved in the Soviet Union" they are deceiving themselves.

He believes that class privilege is being restored and that the "Soviet Union bids fair to be as reactionary as any country which has emerged from feudalism."

In contrast to the above, Eastman said in 1934 that in Russia progress hitherto considered utopian was being made "in every sphere in which radical reformers and what we call dreamers are wont in our country to beat their brains against a cold rampart of cynicism and indifference." His 1934 opinion was based on what specialists in "education, prison reform, public health, women's freedom, sex and family relations, birth control, prostitution, yellow journalism, drug addiction, alcoholism, rights of national minorities, elimination of anti-Semitism, mental hygiene, administration of justice, peace, war and patriotism, economic planning," claimed to have found.

He put away the article without publishing because "the conditions it described were disappearing as I wrote.

He decries the change from a uniformity, discipline, examina-tionless school system of 1934 to the strictly disciplined and uniformed schools of today.

Speaking of present pressure for larger families he states, "To give teeth to this reactionary decree, and make it clear that it relates only to the ill-paid masses of the workers and the peasants. It is enforced by raising the costs of divorce and alimony beyond the reach of these human cattle, and making abortion, one of woman's few real guarantees of liberty, once more a crime. That it will not be a crime to those who have money and are in the know—those most particularly who issued the decree is a perfectly well understood. It is class legislation in its foulest form."

Among many things, Eastman is saddened by the cessation of emigration in Russia on the score of her attitude toward war. Her slogan formerly was "Workers of the world unite" against war. According to him Stalin now appears to be running up "the slogan of all mad dogs of war: 'Defense of the fatherland is the supreme law of life'."

The Songs of China A family that is having more to do with the destiny of 450,000,000 Chinese than any other are "psychologically American."

The modern songs were educated by the Methodists and others in America. One of them married Chiang Kai-shek. The Atlantic foreigner concludes an interesting article about them as follows:

"Anyone who has not the responsibility for the act can tell China to fight Japan. But Chiang Kai-shek who knows what that would mean has accepted the 'policy of the willing.' He knows but does not break it to his ally that has asked China from the fate of England.
And those who believe that Japan could not have done in 1937 as complete a job on Manchuria did in Africa. He understands the problem that Chiang Kai-shek faced and handled admirably. He understands that if China became a battlefield for the powers to save China.
It would mean that in the end China would pay all the bills, or there would be no China.

He is a student of the subject, but adhered to a policy that is Chiang Kai-shek. He gives the impression

TELLING THE WORLD of being an opportunist and a car-reerist. Actually, he is a man who follows guiding principles. That is perhaps why his new army is built upon moral principles incorporated in his 'New Life Movement,' a combination of the morals of Christianity with the ethics of Confucius.

Here in tabloid is the Soong family as have known it all these years.
They are big people, these Soongs.
Family intrigues, jealousies, disputes—all of these they have, and at times the situation is very tense.
But, in the large, they have done a brave and manly job for China, and there is no one to take their places."

"Man, proposes, God disposes." That ancient adage can be aptly applied to the problem of flood control.

First flood control measure in this country was taken by New Orleans in 1717, when a levee was built. First Federal action came in 1859, when Congress appropriated $50,000 for a survey of the Mississippi. Since that time billions of dollars have been spent by various units of government in attempts to curb the destruction caused by great rivers on a rampage. Since the great 1927 flood alone, several hundreds of millions of dollars have gone into dikes, levees, reservoirs.
It was widely believed that the flood menace had at last been eliminated, at least so far as important centers of population were concerned. Then came 1937, and man-made devices again proved inadequate.

As a result flood control, past, present and projected, has again become a national issue, in engaging the attention of public men and engineers alike.

Most flood control projects, as Nicholas Roosevelt writes in the New York Herald Tribune, "are dealing with results, not causes.
They are seeking to curb the damage of the waters, not to curb the waters themselves." If the waters are to be curbed and now given to civilization must be returned to grass and woods, in order to hold rain and prevent excessive run off.
Experiments have shown that where the run off in a grazed clear-cut is 80%, the run-off in a similar watered which is grazed and timbered will be as little as one-sixth of one percent.

Obvious question is, Why, then, have we spent our millions for dams and levees and reservoirs when we might have curbed the water at its source?
In 1937, according to Time, Army engineers pointed out that to reduce a Mississippi flood one foot would require the holding out of 7,000,000 to 11,000,000 acre feet of water. If 8,000,000 acres of reforestation and 373 unorganized townships

Pay and Fetch It

When it comes to a nation minding its own business when other nations are at war there are more difficulties encountered than immediately appear.

At this writing there are eleven "How To Do It" bills pending in Washington on the question of how and how much we will prevent our manufacturers from selling to belligerents.

The Clark-Bone-Vandenberg-Nye resolution is the most drastic of all.
It would make the nations at war say to their agents, "Pay for what you get when you get it and fetch it home in our own boats."

Those who think this would be too abrupt a break from our former freedom of the seas policy would give greater discretionary powers to the president to be used in accordance with the details of a war emergency.

People who feel that their losses in the 1929 stock crashes were due indirectly to unwise war manufacturing and investment will be heartily in favor of the Pay and Fetch It idea.

Both Had Better Consider

The Flint strike situation is too involved for the average person to sufficiently untangle to pass a definite judgment upon. But of this we are sure, Both sides had better consider that they are making history by their acts and decisions. More and more one hears expressions from people favorable to the best working conditions and rewards possible to working people to the effect that they are hurting their cause by occupying the property contrary to the rules of the game.
Granted that some of them own stock, still they should abide by majority rules in regard to the use of the common property. If labor does not abide by the rules of the game in sportsmanlike manner they will lose friends and plenty.

On the other hand the temper of the public is such today, and the general tide of world thought is coming in with such force in favor of justice in human relationships that directors of men and money had better make sure that speeding up tactics which break down the nervous system had better be abolished.

The important question appears to be not who will win a technical decision in this case, but who will come through with a better reparation in the eyes of labor as a whole and the public in general.

Observing Lent

For 1,300 years Christians have been observing 40 days of lent in memory of Christ's death and passion. Some observe but forty hours it depends on which tradition is believed concerning the length of Christ's fasting in the wilderness.

Some have observed Lent by watching what others did about it.
Today more protestants and protestant churches use the period for a special exploring of the life of the Spirit in the soul of man, for self-denial and a re-consecration to high and noble living.

Possibly the increased interest in Lent indicates that more are interested in their living, or living so as to be less embarrassed when they one day meet their Lord. A man who has been a real friend and whom we admire for many fine qualities recently said, "My religion is the Golden Rule, doing unto others as I would be done by." Christ said that the golden rule "is the law and the prophets." Another person commenting on Golden rule collection said "It is alright if in the 'others' you include Jesus Christ."

Some may use Lent as a period for reviewing the teachings of Christ, meditating about His great sacrifice for us and considering how they can best live the Golden Rule toward Him when they hope one day to meet.

"B" SQUAD 43—S. PARIS J. H. 21

The "B" Team ended its season last evening by defeating South Paris Junior High 43-21. This team has shown possibilities all season, but until this last game lacked the necessary aggressiveness and speed. They entered the game determined to avenge the 24-23 licking which they suffered at Paris, and after the first quarter there was no question of the outcome. Only the fact that numerous substitutions were made kept the score from being much larger.

All five of the starting men played a bang-up game, but "Tator" Young at forward led the offense with a total of 19 points. Palmer at center played a great game under the baskets and mixed into the team play on offense to no little degree.

This team is composed of mostly freshmen, with a few sophomores and with a little more experience should be good varsity material in a couple of years. The class games start this week end and here again the boys will get an opportunity for more experience.

EDWARD E. BENNETT

Edward E. Bennett was born in Errol, N. H., Aug. 6, 1878, the son of Arthur E. and Celia M. Thurston Bennett. He was educated in the public schools of Errol and at Gould Academy.

For several years he was engaged in farming and lumbering at Errol. In 1914 he came to Bethel, purchasing the E. L. Bartlett place in Mayville. Here he entered the milk business and in recent years offered attractive quarters for over-night guests. On May 14, 1936, the entire set of buildings burned to the ground. He then purchased the A. F. Chapman property adjoining and carries on both farms. The new quarters include a most modern residence and barn, and make one of the most attractive farm homes in this section.

Mr. Bennett has ever been interested in civic affairs. In Errol he served as selectman, tax collector, clerk of school district, and member of the school board. Since coming here he has not held town office although he has supported progressive measures and also served on the budget committee. For the past 42 years he has been active in Grange affairs. He has served two years as Master of the Errol Grange and two years as Master since transferring to Bear River Grange at Newry, and is now Master of Oxford Pomona. He was a charter member of Androscoggin Lodge, K. of P. at Errol, 25 years ago, and is an officer of Oxford Bear Lodge at Hanover at the present time.

On Nov. 25, 1909, he married Miss Minnie A. Olson of Wilson's Mills and they have had six children, five of whom are living.

MAINE MEETING PLACE

One of the hits of the very successful Sportmen's Show that was held in Boston last week was the booth maintained by the Maine Guide's Association.

Sportmen from all parts of New England gathered daily at this booth to drink in the words of wisdom dispensed by representatives of the romantic trade of guiding.

There they obtained first hand information about Maine fishing, canoeing, hunting, and camping from men who know more about these matters than anyone else. It is safe to say that by their efforts in selling Maine that hundreds, if not thousands, of persons will come to our state next year for the first time.

If they did nothing else but attend these shows and extend Maine hospitality to prospective guests, the Maine Guide's Association would be a success.

The organization, however, is going much further than that. Formed in 1934 to further the interests not only of the guides but the sportsmen they served as well, the Maine Guide's Association has done much to bring order out of chaos in a calling that is the livelihood of between two and three thousand men.

Before the forming of the Association, Maine guides had no means of regulating the few of their kind who were working against the best interests of guides as a whole.

There is no doubt that a few guides at that time were not as careful about observing the fish and game laws as they might have been.

I doubt that there was anything very vicious about these few guides who were careless about our laws and regulations. They just didn't stop to think that in the long run they would be the ones to suffer most.

Too, a few guides looked upon the state's wardens not as allies but as enemies. This didn't take the long view of the matter which would have shown them that wardens and guides must of necessity work hand in hand keeping Maine an unspoiled hunting and fishing paradise for years to come.

In addition, there were some guides who failed to give their patrons a "break." They overcharged and were not solicitous as to whether their sportsmen enjoyed to the full their stay in our state.

As I have said, these guides who were unethical were only a small minority. It is small minorities, however, that often determine the public's attitude.

In the short space of time which the guides have organized they have done wonders. Year over year the guides' state will belong to the association. Local organizations affiliated with the parent association are springing up in all sections of the state.

They are regulating the activities of guides, which by a system of education is bringing honor to the unthinking, wanton, dishonest and unethical guides who can only mean harm to the state.

Informal guides, who were never before they are branching out and becoming ardent salesmen of Maine in addition to being better guides.

Maine guides as a whole have always been honest, intelligent, and efficient.

In the future these sterling qualities will do much to keep Maine enthroned as the leading vacation land of the east.

No one who pays rent and for fuel, food and clothing and other expenses, of which Lathrop has a family is merely a Poll Tax Payer! When making a dress, sew a piece of the material on the underneath side of the hem. Then if the dress ever needs a patch, one which matches the dress exactly will be available.

When making pie crust ahead of time, instead of leaving it in a lump, just roll it out and put it into pie pans.

Then stack up the pastry-lined pans with wax paper between, and store in ice refrigerator. This enables one to make one-crust pies in record time.

Instead of spending a great deal of time peeling small potatoes, boil them with their skins on in salt water, then put them through a potato ricer. The skins stay in the ricer, so there is little waste and a lot of time is saved.

To make an attractive set of kitchen canisters, try this idea: save cans of various sizes that have lids and paint the lids and cans in contrasting colors to harmonize with your kitchen. Cut out designs in shape of teapot, sugar bowl, etc., and paste on the cans. Then shellac over the design.

A CHOCOLATE NUT COOKIE RECIPE that you'll want to try: Melt 2 ounces of unsweetened chocolate and 1/2 cup of shortening over low flame. Cool slightly. Add 1 cup of brown sugar and 1 well-beaten egg; mix thoroughly. Then mix and sift together 2 cups of flour, 2 teaspoons of baking powder, and 1/2 teaspoon salt and add alternately with 3/4 cup of milk. Add 1 cup broken nut meats. Then place in a modern ice refrigerator and reserve for future use. The mixture will not dry out or absorb colors in modern ice refrigerator. When ready to bake, remove from refrigerator, and drop by teaspoonfuls on ungreased baking sheet. Bake in a moderate oven (375°) for 15 minutes.

If the baby tosses his toys on the floor just take a string and hang them on each side of his high chair just off the floor. Then change the toys frequently.

M-m-m! A Lemon Sherbert Recipe. Combine 1 1/2 cups of granulated sugar and 1 quart of water and boil for 5 minutes. Soak 1 tablespoon of gelatin in 2 tablespoons of cold water and dissolve in the hot syrup. Cool. Add 1/2 cup of lemon juice and a few drops of yellow food coloring. Pour mixture into freezing container of still ice cream freezer. Cover and surround with a mixture of chopped ice and salt (2 parts ice to 1 part salt, by volume). Cover freezer. Place in modern ice refrigerator. When partially frozen, make a meringue of 1 egg white and 2 tablespoons of powdered sugar and add. Freeze about 1 hour. Stir at 15-minute intervals.

Cracked ice, in an ice bag or wrapped in a cloth, will often cure a headache when applied to the head, neck, or soles of the feet. Use manufactured ice, because it is frozen solidly and will last much longer than other ice.

You don't have to go around slipping on icy streets. To avoid this, stick some adhesive tape on the bottoms of your rubbers or galoshes.

Here's an "easy-to-do" idea that will give the small kiddies a treat. Make a batch of their favorite fudge and when it has been beaten just enough, drop spoonful of it on vanilla wafers. Then place an automatic cracker, standing up, in the fudge on each wafer.

Antient World Wonders

OXFORD COUNTY UNITED PARISH

The date for the Twelfth Annual Winter Carnival draweth nigh. For several weeks we have been wondering just what the conditions for the Carnival were going to be. We have not worried much about them, for we have felt that snow was a sure crop in Maine. It begins to look right now, however, as though we are not going to have any too much snow. Indeed, at the Outing Club meeting last night the Grounds Committee made plans to look for a location where there might be snow enough for the dashes, and a good hill for the downhill race and slalom.

Remember that the first event of the Carnival this year is the first showing of the Carnival drama, Here Comes Patricia. This is being given on Friday evening in hopes that the people will be able to enjoy the play in a less crowded house than has been the usual case.

Then in the morning the sporting events will begin, and will fill up most of the day with dashes and cross-country races, and downhill races. There will be no jumping, as the snow conditions are not right. Vote for the Queen, and no help some friend of yours to get a good trip to Presque Isle, where the Queen will be selected. You will find plenty of good things to eat at the Church, both for dinner and supper and your patronage there will be greatly appreciated. Then in the evening there will be another good time at the Odd Fellows Hall. The King and Queen will be crowned, the prizes awarded and the drama will be repeated.

The first Sunday in Lent proved to be a very rainy day. We hope for better weather on the following Lenten Sundays, for we are very eager to have just as many of you as possible present for the Lenten Services of Worship. The Golden Text is: "Trust in the Lord with all thine heart; and lean not unto thine own understanding." (Prov. 3:5)

Among the citations from the Bible is the following: "Surely there is a vein for the silver, and a place for gold where they fine it. Iron is taken out of the earth, and brass is molten out of stone. But where shall wisdom be found? and where is the place of understanding? God understandeth the way thereof, and knoweth the place thereof." (Job 28: 1, 2, 12, 23).

The Lesson-Sermon also includes the following selections from the Christian Science Textbook, "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures" by Mary Baker Eddy: "The time has come for a finite conception of the infinite and of a material body as the seat of mind to give place to a divine sense of intelligence and its manifestations"—to the better understanding that Science gives of the Supreme Being, or divine Principle, and Idea" (Page 285: 17-22).
